Kate Marshall 2025 C&E Report Demonstrates Broad Support More Than $190,000 Cash on Hand

Reno, NV — Kate Marshall announced today that she raised more than $180,000 in 2025 and her campaign for Mayor of Reno has more $191,000 cash on hand. The list of contributors reflects strong local, community-based support.

The filing highlights broad support for Kate Marshall in the community:

- 389 contributions from Reno residents — 70% of all contributions
- 555 unique contributors with 98% being contributions from individuals, not corporations or entities
- 520 contributions of $100 or less, representing 66% of all contributions
- 518 contributions from Nevadans statewide — 93% of all contributions

“This campaign is being built by the people who live here, work here, and care deeply about Reno’s future,” Marshall said. “Local government is the first and last mile of public service, and these numbers reflect a community ready for leadership that listens, acts and delivers.”

Marshall’s campaign finance filing shows a total of 784 total contributions, including 776 monetary contributions and 8 in-kind contributions, totaling $186,587.99. Of that amount, $181,854.50 was raised in direct monetary contributions, with $4,733.49 reported as in-kind support.

“This campaign is about meeting people where they are. My goal is simple: to make Reno more affordable, more livable, and stronger for the next generation. Together we can build a Reno for us.”
